

SYMPOSIUM IN THE HUMANITIES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

DEMOCRACY AND IMPERIALISM: THE RECENT WORK OF JAMES TULLY

You are invited to participate in this symposium on James Tully's Public Philosophy in a New Key (Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2008), which has been organized by Richard Bourke, Joel Isaac and Quentin Skinner under the auspices of the Centre for the Study of the History of Political Thought and the Department of History at Queen Mary, University of London. The symposium will address different aspects of Tully's recent two-volume work in political philosophy, focusing in particular on the themes of Democracy and Imperialism. There will be two short presentations in the morning and two short presentations in the afternoon. Presentations will be followed by open discussion.

Date: Friday 12 February 2010

Time: 10:00–5:00

Venue: University of London, Senate House, South Block, Room G37 (Ground Floor)

Speakers:

Duncan Bell (Department of Politics and International Studies, University of Cambridge)

Richard Bellamy (Department of Political Science, University College London)

Annabel Brett (Faculty of History, University of Cambridge)

James Tully (Department of Political Science, University of Victoria)

Antje Wiener (Faculty of Economic and Social Science, Hamburg University)

Since numbers for this event are limited, please confirm your attendance in advance by email

R.S.V.P. Richard Bourke (r.bourke@qmul.ac.uk) or Joel Isaac (j.t.isaac@qmul.ac.uk)

This event is sponsored by the Principal's Office, Queen Mary, University of London